Get your Palanca ready!

Spiritual Director Reflection

Why do we send an invitation to people we want to be at a party?

1. To Build and maintain relationships

Everyone wants to be invited, wants to be known and want to be an important person. So, it's important to get invited to the most important events from someone you know and create harmony. Not only motivate a person to get to know you more or want to work with you, but also it can strengthen the relationships between you and the group that you invited. It's a simple way to help you maintain your friendship and people that you would like to get to know them.

2. Create connections

Invitation card will help you maintain friendships and build a stronger connection between you and people who you would like to know. Since Invitation card will show that you care about that person and see them as the important people.

3. Keep it as a memory

Nice and meaningful Invitation card will make you feel more special, as well as a person who will receive it from you! Sometimes, the cards can bring you back to the old days with a good memory. Most people like to keep Nice Invitation card as a memory in their albums or decorate in their rooms to remind them of a good memory and motivated them!

4. Build your brand

If you are a business owner and would like to invite influential people, you have to think the different way to attract target people. Since it will help you build your own brand and make people remember about your brand better! 5. They are informative Since some party might have a dress code so it's nice to have important details for the guest. Maybe you'd like the guests to bring a gift to your party which is an option for your event as well. When you think about how to design an Invitation card, it also needs to be more specific about the name of your guest to make them feel valued. The colors and the design can describe more about your events and show your personality or the brand.

How many times have you heard at a closing that Cursillo is the best kept secret in the Catholic Church? Every time I hear this it makes me think that I am not doing a very good job of bringing people to Cursillo. In the times we live, I really believe that we need to have those in our community live their Cursillo. We are constantly hearing about all the bad in the world and trying to figure out how to combat it. Well, I think the answer is clear. Let's get people hooked up with Jesus again. My Cursillo was a life changing experience for me which resulted in me becoming a deacon. Obviously not everyone will have that experience. However I have honestly never heard of anyone having a negative experience living their Cursillo.

So, what do we have to do as a Cursillo community? Bishop Ricken continues to talk about becoming missionary disciples. For us as a Cursillo community we must continue to grow our Cursillo family by inviting those we care about to Cursillo. Fulfill our obligation as Catholic Christians to bring people to Christ. The really cool thing about inviting someone to Cursillo is that you know they will be changed forever by the Holy Spirit on their weekend. So, if we truly believe in Cursillo, we will want to achieve the 5 goals discussed above to have a great party!

God Bless,
Deacon Tom Gritton

Mission Possible

In recent days, the phrase "Mission Statement" has been popping up in a number of places, which got me thinking: As Cursillistas, what is our mission? A good place to start is to understand the purpose of Cursillo, itself. Eduardo Bonnín (the founder of Cursillos in Christianity) said:

The Cursillo does not aim at getting the best people to become Christians, nor that Christians become better, but that Christians be Christian. That they understand that being a conscious Christian means being converted at all times. All this so that they gradually get to discover, from the very place where God has planted them, that God loves them in Christ. (Study of the Charism, pg. 148)

We begin this discovery on our Cursillo weekend. Hopefully, our mission, then, is to continue that discovery as we return to our environments, live our life in Grace, and bring others close to Christ. As missionaries, we need a solid support system to keep us going, both in our successes, and in our difficulties. That support system consists of consistent contact with Christ and consistent contact with our brothers and sisters in Christ.

Our contact with Christ is to be filled with Him through the Sacraments, where we will be taught to know Him better and more deeply appreciate His friendship. Regular reception of Holy Eucharist and frequenting the Sacrament of Reconciliation will give us the grace and courage needed for the journey. "Whoever remains in me and I in him will bear much fruit, because without me you can do nothing". (John 15:5)

Our contact with our sisters and brothers and Christ is made through attending group reunions and Ultreyas. When we gather with other Christians sharing a common goal, we are able to encourage each other in our mission, and keep the spirit and friendship of Cursillo going. Our small groups provide a regular means to share our life of piety, study and action with a group of trusted friends. Likewise, the Ultreya brings the wider Cursillo community together in an effort to keep the small groups from feeling isolated and to stay true to the mission of evangelizing their environments. St. Paul gives us good advice: "We must consider how to rouse one another to love and good works. We should not stay away from our assembly, as is the custom of some, but encourage one another . . ." (Heb. 10: 24-25)

So, my fellow Cursillistas, I encourage you to boldly live your mission as a Christian and take advantage of small group reunions and Ultreyas offered through Cursillo.
